...Evolution of Douglas County Libraries

Douglas County Libraries has one of the finest local history repositories in the state—learn about the Douglas County History Research Center (DCHRC) from one of the archivists. We will be covering: the history of the DCHRC; the collections held there and research resources we make available; the archivist's areas of expertise for consultation; and what the future holds for both the DCHRC and Douglas County Libraries as your premier information resources.

Adam Speirs is one of three archivists at the Douglas County History Research Center at Douglas County Libraries. He has worked at academic, private, and public library archives since 2007, and specializes in archives management, digital preservation, and oral history.
